THE DEVELOPMENT OF
SOUTHERN FRENCH AND CATALAN SOCIETY
718-1050
Archibald R. Lewis

CONTENTS

Introduction

Part I
Southern France and Carolingian Conquest, 718-778

Chapter I: Southern France in the Early Eighth Century
Chapter II: The Carolingian Conquest, 718-778

Part II
Southern France, Catalonia, and the Carolingian Empire,
778-828

Chapter III: The Expansion into Gascony and Catalonia
Chapter IV: The Carolingian System
Chapter V: Southern French and Catalan Society (778-828)

Part III
The Decline of Royal Power, 828-900

Chapter VI: Civil War, Invasion, and the Breakdown of Royal Authority
Chapter VII: The Governmental System of the Midi and Catalonia
Chapter VIII: The Church (828-900)
Chapter IX: Southern French and Catalan Society (828-900)

Part IV
The Failure of the Territorial State, 900-975

Chapter X: The End of Royal Influence
Chapter XI: The Breakup of Principalities and the Court System
Chapter XII: The Military System of the Midi and Catalonia
Chapter XIII: The Church (900-975)
Chapter XIV: The Society of the Midi and Catalonia

Part V
The Age of the Principes, 975-1050

Chapter XV: The New Militarism
Chapter XVI: The Church (975-1050)
Chapter XVII: The Continued Failure of the Principalities
Chapter XVIII: The Principes and Public Order
Chapter XIX: Southern French and Catalan Society (975-1050)
NOTE: Citation from this edition may be by URL or by reference to the pagination of the original 1965 University of Texas edition. These page numbers have been inserted into the text, set off in bold face and brackets, as in [84].